

Intervention Specialist (Full-Time, 12 months) Position Description

Who are we?

Founded in 1986, the mission of Project PAVE is to empower youth to end the cycle of relationship violence. The cycle of relationship violence is generational and affects people in every community. PAVE's approach to ending this cycle is through therapy and family advocacy and violence prevention education programming. Project PAVE annually reaches over 4,000 children, teens, parents, teachers and other professionals with its programming in Denver-metro area schools and other community outlets. For more information about Project PAVE, visit www.projectpave.org

Who are you?

A competent individual in the area of youth interventions, you can provide support and psycho-educational services for groups of youth impacted by gender-based violence. You are at your best when connected to young people and helping them build skills for healing. You have strong classroom management abilities and excel at building rapport with youth in a school setting. You are team-oriented and can own responsibility for your role. You can communicate clearly, and you possess excellent listening skills. You enjoy school and community settings and are passionate about ending the cycle of relationship violence.

What you'll do:

- Provide group interventions in schools by leading Second Stage support groups for youth victims of violence and other psycho-educational groups for youth about healthy relationships and violence prevention
- Support youth and families by providing crisis intervention, resource linking, and referral assistance
- Observe and co-facilitate PAVE violence prevention classes by supporting the Prevention Team and leading the classes independently as needed
- Connect and collaborate with parents/guardians to assess any possible needs, and advocate to resolve any issues and/or concerns
- Manage participant records, ensuring timely completion of required forms, surveys, and other data entry

What makes you a great candidate for this role?

- Professional experience in education, human services, social work, counseling, youth development or other related fields
- Comfort leading groups of youth with support of your Clinical and Program Supervisors
- Excitement to build relationships with young people
- Strong understanding of gender-based violence and prevention strategies

- Ability to engage in conversations in Spanish and English
- Devotion to working within culturally diverse environments
- Positive attitude with an openness and willingness to learn

(and we'd love it if you also possess...)

- Strong presentation and public speaking skills (esp. with youth audiences)
- Background in education
- Experience working with victims of violence and trauma

Reports to: Intervention Director (with weekly support from Licensed Clinical Supervisor)

Compensation: Starting base salary range is $41,600 to $45,100, commensurate with experience and skills. Most employees start at the lower end of the range.
